06.11.18 Chettinad – Madurai

(B/D) After breakfast we explore the local area of Chettinad and Karaikudi. Karaikudi and 74 other villages comprise Chettinad, the homeland of the Nattukottai Chettiars. Their legacies are the fascinating houses that have to be seen to be believed. It also offers extensive antique shopping, weekly shandy (village market), a number of temples, numerous craftsmen working with wood and metal, silversmiths and goldsmiths, attractive textiles and most importantly the exciting Chettinad Cuisine. The arts of Chettinad occupy a distinct position in South Indian folklore. Wood carving, silver embellishment, woven saris, palm-leaf baskets, gold jewellery, hand-made tiles, architectural styles, refined cuisine and egg plastering are among their more visible contributions to the wide-ranging repertoire of Indian arts and crafts. Chettinad baskets have a special attraction as they have intricate patterns made with date-palm leaves. We will see the Chettinadu Mansion, which was built in 1902. This 100 year old architectural marvel is one of the hidden treasures of Tamil Nadu. It's 100 rooms and sheer size of the marriage hall, tall pillars, beautiful balconies, and hidden lofts the size of a large room in the false ceilings are features typical of a bygone era of gracious living. Here we learn the living style of the Chettiars, the business tycoons of the South who made their livelihood in Burma in the last century.

Formed with the building of a dam in 1895, this reservoir meanders around the contours of the wooded hills, providing a permanent source of water for the local wildlife. In the lap of the mountains, the environment of the sanctuary is like a canvas of many shades. This hill station was once the summer resort of the British Government in South India. Sprawling tea plantations, picture-book towns, winding lanes and holiday facilities make this a popular resort town. Munnar also has the highest mountain peak in South India, Anamudi, which towers over the area at a height of 2,695 metres. Later we visit the Tata Tea Museum. This evening we enjoy a visit to the market and church. Dinner tonight is at the hotel.
Accommodation: The Silver Tips, Iddukki or similar

11.11.18 Munnar – Kumarakom

(B/D) Today we check out of the hotel and commence our 4½ hour drive to Kumarakom. Kumarakom is called 'One of the Ten Paradises on Earth' by National Geographic Traveller. Kumarakom is a stunningly beautiful cluster of backwaters and fishing villages set against the backdrop of the Vembanad Lake in Kerala. This tranquil emerald peninsula is part of the Kuttanad region and is 13km from Kottayam. Spread across 14 acres, the Kumarakom Bird Sanctuary is a bird watchers paradise. An enchanting backwater destination, Kumarakom is truly one of the gems of Kerala, offering travellers exotic sights of flora and fauna, boat cruises and fishing experiences. The area has gorgeous palms, coconut groves, lush paddy fields, kettuvalloms (traditional rice barges), rafts and canoes, rich marine life and panoramic views of the backwaters with their intricate waterways and canals. The rest of the day is at leisure. Dinner this evening is at the hotel.
Accommodation: Lakesong Resort, Ammankari Road or similar

12.11.18 Kumarakom – Allepey

(B/L/D) This morning after breakfast we travel to Allepey. Upon arrival we board our private houseboat(s) for a cruise through the backwaters of Allepey, which is one of the lowest lying areas in India. The Kuttanad region of Kerala is called the rice bowl of the state, where the rice is actually grown on water-filled fields reclaimed from the sea. The area has endless stretches of paddy fields, small streams and canals, bridges, a silver beach, serene lagoons and emerald coconut palms. The town has at least six navigable canals that are its lifeline, connecting the city to the intricate thread of backwater trails and earning it the name 'the Venice of the East'. Allepey lies between the Arabian Sea and a vast network of rivers flowing into it, explaining its unique blend of fresh and saltwater ecosystems. Traditionally, the Kettuvalloms were old barges used to ferry rice and spices. Today they are modified houseboats equipped with comfortable facilities, giving guests a unique way to explore the gorgeous backwaters. On the cruise we will likely see villagers go about their traditional occupations such as fishing and agriculture. Each boat has a fully equipped kitchen and an experienced cook to prepare authentic Kerala cuisine with seafood specialities and fresh vegetables. The waterways of Kerala play a major role in the economy of the state as they link remote villages and islands with the mainland.

Accommodation: Evergreen Superior Houseboat or similar

13.11.18 Allepey – Cochin

(B/D) After breakfast this morning we say goodbye to our houseboat and proceed on a two hour drive to Cochin. Cochin is situated on the south-west coast of the Indian Peninsula in Kerala. Its importance over the centuries as a strategic maritime centre has earned it the name 'Queen of the Arabian Sea'. Cochin is also called the 'Gateway to Kerala'. Over the centuries the Arabs, British, Chinese, Dutch and Portuguese have left their imprint on the trade, history, heritage, culture and development of the city in the form of a rich and cosmopolitan legacy. Cochin is perfectly flanked by the stunning Western Ghats mountain range to the east and the lovely Arabian Sea to the west. Upon arrival in Cochin we check into the hotel for a two night stay. This evening we enjoy an enthralling performance of Kathakali, which is an ancient dance drama of Kerala and is one of the oldest theatre forms in the world. Performances are traditionally based on themes from Hindu mythology, especially the two epics, the Ramayana and the Mahabharata. Kathakali has an unbelievably elaborate make-up ritual that takes hours to complete. The colours used in the make-up are determined by the nature of the characters depicted by the dancers. Dinner this evening is at the hotel.

Accommodation: Crowne Plaza Kochi, Kundanoor or similar

14.11.18 Cochin

(B/D) This morning we enjoy a tour of Cochin. The Fort Kochi Heritage Zone is wonderfully cosmopolitan, with a beautiful mix of Malayali Christians, Hindus, Muslims and Jews. Fort Kochi is where the influence of the Portuguese, the Dutch and the British can be seen the most. The area has charming old-world streets and buildings. See the ancient Chinese fishing nets (Cheenavala), distinctly unique to Cochin. It is believed that traders from China introduced these nets here. Remarkably, outside of China, these nets are found only in Cochin. The St. Francis Church is said to be India's oldest European church. It was originally built by Portuguese friars in 1503. Vasco da Gama was buried in this church in 1524 before his remains were moved to Portugal. The Dutch Palace (Mattancherry Palace) was built by the Portuguese in 1555 as a gift for the Maharaja of Cochin. It was renovated again by the Dutch in 1663. Now the Palace houses rare royal memorabilia and artefacts and a series of fine murals depicting scenes from the Hindu epics Mahabharata and Ramayana. Dinner this evening is at the hotel.

Accommodation: Crowne Plaza Kochi, Kundanoor or similar
